Project description:

The project deals with the subject „intercultural competence in vocational training” from a transnational perspective. Intercultural competences are getting more and more important due to the increasing internationalization of the economy, the integration of the European labor market and the resulting mobility of workers. The project is based on a transnational project in Brandenburg (“European Youth Olympics for intercultural openness, tolerance and mobility on the European labor market”). As a framework of the partnership is an open concept, these materials can and will be included for testing. One of the results will be the creation of e-learning contents on a moodle-based platform with free access in connection with the project website. The partners test, develop and validate various learning modules and materials for teaching intercultural competences as an additional qualification in vocational training under a transnational perspective. In addition for evaluation and development the contents a student mobility is foreseen.
